

INSTITUTE OF AMERICAN INDIAN ARTS

NEW MEDIA ARTS INSTRUCTOR

The Institute of American Indian Arts (IAIA) is accepting applications for a New Media Arts Instructor within the College of Contemporary Native Art. This instructor, in collaboration with the Department Chair, will take the lead in the development and delivery of required courses in interactive media, animation, and related graphic design courses. In addition, incumbent will function in a leadership role in developing the new media arts curriculum and assessment of student learning.

Graduate degree in media, graphic design or related field, which includes directly-related technological expertise with superior skill with MacIntosh-based systems; and at least 6 months of recent college-level new media-related instructional experience, is required. Must have demonstrated background as a creative and accomplished scholar in the field of New Media Technology. Prior experience in the development of college-level new media curriculum is essential. Experience teaching Native American students is preferred.

For full job description visit: <http://www.iaia.edu/employment.php>. Send cover letter, resume. 3 professional references to: IAIA, HR, 83 Avan Nu Po, Santa Fe, NM 87508, fax; 505.424.0505; email:humanresources@iaia.edu. Native Preference applies/send CIB/Tribal Enrollment if claiming preference. Finalists will be asked to submit official transcripts.